Subject: More 6 mm miniatures for metal maniacs

For those who like miniatures instead of blocks, here's an example list using Baccus (<http://www.baccus6mm.com/>) figures. They have an extensive line of Greeks, Persians, and Indians from the era, and it is easy to select the figures to give an interesting and colorful miniature army. Peltasts, phalangists, hoplites, horse archers, immortals - the minis look cool! Feel free to comment or ask questions on the selection or alternatives.

Notes:

1. Baccus lacks camel cavalry figures. You could substitute interesting horse units or look to other 6 mm manufacturers.
2. No prices yet, I intend to buy these, so I can report later on pricing. Too bad the dollar to pound ratio is poor right now for US purchases from a UK supplier.
3. If you have 6mm Roman or Carthaginian armies, you certainly can save money by reusing elephants, chariots, or other units. For my Roman and Carthaginian armies I used Macedonian and Persian chariots, and these obviously fit in here.
